FISCAL NOTE ANALYSIS

STATE OF ALASKA
2021 LEGISLATIVE SESSIONAnalysis

The proposed legislation updates the current statute (AS 43.08) to clarify that borrowing in anticipation of revenue collections includes entering into line of credit agreements as well as revenue anticipation notes. The proposed legislation creates flexibility to enter into line of credit agreements when the Commissioner of the Department of Revenue considers it to be in the best financial interest of the State to do so. Having this tool available is useful when cash available in the general fund is insufficient to pay state expenditures as a result of a disparity in timing between revenues received and when funds need to be disbursed. A line of credit allows access to a preset borrowing limit that can be used at any time to cover short term needs, thus reducing the need to draw on other funds to provide state services.

Low fees are paid to have access to a line of credit and higher fees are paid on amounts borrowed. Fees paid would be offset by allowing state funds to continue to be invested, earning returns, rather than being borrowed to cover cash flow needs. The Treasury Division in the Department of Revenue would be responsible for securing and managing the line of credit.

There is no fiscal impact to the Treasury Division. Section 43.08.35 of the proposed legislation provides for an appropriation each fiscal year from the general fund for the amount necessary for the payment of interest on money borrowed.
